Principal's Message

As we move into summer we are celebrating all the learning that has taken place at Fox Creek School since September. Thank you goes out to all the parents and guests who attended our Annual spring Concert and art Show. It is awesome to see so many in our gym to support our students and staff with their performance. This event is possible due to the hard work of our students and staff and for all of this I say Thank you.

Graduation plans are well underway as our Grade 12 students will be celebrating their achievements with family and friends on June 29th @ 3pm. As we move into June, our CHAMP Team will be organizing sessions for our students in an attempt to support them with the preparation for exams at the end of the year. It is important we continue to support our students during the next month as we wind down to summer. This can be a stressful time for students as they prepare for exams and we are wondering what their next steps in life will be as they finish Grade 12. We are committed to working with our students and families to ensure students have a strong finish to their school year. If you have any concerns about your daughter or son please do not hesitate to contact us as we can support them to the best of our abilities.

There will be a Kindergarten information and registration evening on June 5th @ 6pm at Fox Creek School. If you have a child entering kindergarten this will be a worthwhile meeting to attend so you have all the pertinent information for your child.

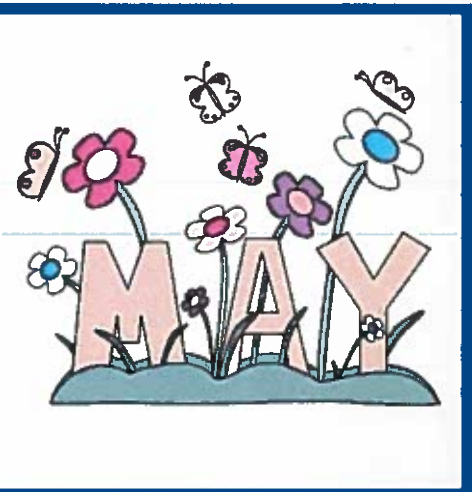

That PAT, Diploma and Final Exam Schedule is included in this newsletter. Please take time to familiarize yourself with the specific dates and times for these exams. It is essential students show up prepared to do their best on their exams. Students at this time of year are struggling to stay focused until the end of school, we all need to work together to support and ensure every student has a strong finish to the end of the year. Student attendance and commitment to their studies is critical for the next four weeks as they prepare for their finals.

SUMMER SURVIVAL GUIDE

If you are like me, you may be viewing the approaching summer with a mixture of excitement and dread. Depending on parents' work schedule it could be a mad scramble trying to find childcare and summer camps or you may be dreading the long days of keeping your child entertained, stimulated and out of trouble for eight weeks!

Many parents think that keeping their child occupied 24-7 will be beneficial for them. Have you heard of the term "White Space?" In the visual arts world, it is a term often referred to as a negative space, a portion in art or designs that is left unmarked, empty, and blank. Just like white space is important in the art world by giving balance and defining boundaries, white space in a child's life is important because it gives them a chance to stop, pause and breathe.

This summer, I am giving parents of Northern Gateway Public School students a terrifying suggestion (or a double dog dare, if you will): Give your child a full 24 hours with no internet, no video games, no phone, and yes, no chores. After an initial mental break down from you and your child, surprising things will happen...they (and you) will discover imagination, innovation, adventure and natural curiosity.

Why do we fear "unplanned time" or "white space"?

In today's generation it's almost the norm to keep our children occupied at all times. Whether it's scheduled play dates, school, sports, video games or electronics. Some of us see unplanned time as a waste or fear that it could lead to our child getting into trouble. Or the darlings drive us a little crazy with their constant complaints on "being bored" or fighting among themselves.

At the risk of aging myself, I challenge parents this summer to go back to a few of parenting styles of the 1970's and '80's. Okay, I am not saying to ditch the bicycle helmets and car seats and have your precious angels roll around the back of a station wagon, but I think we can all lighten up on the expectations to provide constant entertainment for our children over the summer months. Crack open a Tab, spray some "Sun-in" on your hair and relax.

For those of you younger than me and may not know what a '70's and '80's summer looks like, here a few ideas:

1. They can play outside. All Day.

- *If they're thirsty, drink from the hose
- *Run through the sprinklers

5 They can play on a rainy day.

*Pull out the good old board games. Don't have any? Your local second hand store will have plenty. Leave a game on the table for a couple days, guaranteed your children will start playing them.

*Have a picnic on the kitchen floor

*Build a puzzle.

Great memories happen when we lower our expectations, turn off the screens, and harness the freedom of no school schedules. In our part of the country, the sunny, hot days of summer do not last long, so let's enjoy them while we can!
